

THE BOARD AND BEYOND NEWSLETTER

The JIB acknowledges several September and October holidays and monthly recognitions:

National Hispanic/Latino Heritage month is observed from September 15th to October 15th to acknowledge, recognize, and celebrate the histories, cultures, and contributions of all who have Hispanic or Latino roots.

Rosh Hashanah took place this year from the evening of Monday, September 22nd until Wednesday, September 24th. It is a 2-day celebration marking the beginning of the High Holy Days emphasizing repentance, prayer, and reflection on the past year while looking toward a “sweet” new one.

The holiday of Yom Kippur is celebrated from the evening of Wednesday, October 1st through Thursday, October 2nd. It is known as a “Day of Atonement,” and is considered the holiest day of the year in Judaism, marking the culmination of the High Holy days.

It is a day of deep introspection, repentance, and reconciliation.

Monday, October 13th marks a dual observance. It commemorates this year’s U.S. Federal holiday as we celebrate Christopher Columbus’s 1492 arrival to the Americas. Italian-American communities also honor their culture, heritage, and achievements.

It is also the day we honor the heritage, history, and resilience of all indigenous communities. We celebrate the rich and diverse traditions, cultures, languages, strengths, and contributions here and around the world.

Diwali or Deepavali, was celebrated this year on Monday, October 20th, 2025.

It is known as the “Festival of Lights”, a major five-day event marking the triumph of light over darkness, knowledge over ignorance, and good over evil.

Happy Diwali!

Healthy Aging Month

According to the Centers of Disease Control and Prevention, American's life expectancy has increased for both males and females. Americans are living longer lives but are we making the most of it? Although there are challenges that can come with growing older, for example living with diseases and other conditions, there are many benefits as well! As we get older, we generally become wiser through our lived experiences and have a new perspective on life. We often get to see the fruits of our labor.

The changing of seasons from Summer to Autumn is a perfect time to reevaluate your physical, social, mental, and financial wellness to make sure you are making the most out of life.

Physical Wellness: Multiple studies show that increasing physical activity can improve heart health and other health conditions, boost mood, and improve quality of sleep. The American Heart Association recommends that adults get at least 150 mins per week of moderate intensity physical activity or 75 minutes of vigorous aerobic activity.

The best part is you do not have to go to the gym to be physically active! You can use the city as your gym. Did you know it takes 162 steps to walk up from the pedestal to the crown of the Statue of Liberty? You can take advantage of New York's parks, preserves, and botanical gardens and take strolls with family and friends. Other ways to increase physical activity include swimming, hiking, gardening, tennis, bicycling, and so much more.

Financial Wellness: Making sure you are managing finances responsibly and achieving financial stability is an important part of aging. Some things to consider: Am I spending more than my income? Am I living within my means? Do I have enough money saved for retirement? How can I make my money work for me? This may be intimidating, however a good place to start is visiting the Empower website.

Social & Mental Wellness: More than one third of adults aged 50-80 years old feel lonely or isolated according to a national poll published in JAMA (Journal of the American Medical Association). Isolation and loneliness have been linked to having higher risks for health issues like depression, anxiety, cognitive decline, and heart disease. We humans are social beings. We thrive off our relationships. But relationships don't have to mean romantic relationships. Maintaining healthy relationships with our family, friends, neighbors, co-workers and community is also an important part of aging. Building strong relationships helps keep us motivated and connected.

Meditation and mindfulness have been shown to help make improvements in mental health. Some benefits of meditation and mindfulness include:

- Reducing negative feelings
- Being more patient
- Building skills to manage stress and anger
- Being more self-aware

JIB Medical has the Strike Out Stress program where you can meet with Mariusz Mikulec to learn more about mindfulness and stress reduction techniques. If you are interested, you can call the medical office at 718-591-2014 to schedule an appointment. The Calm app website offers monthly mindfulness challenges where you can get daily prompts that offer tasks like making a gratitude list or doing a 1-minute meditation.

So how do you plan on reinventing yourself?

September is National Recovery Awareness Month

Throughout September, organizations spread awareness, educate the public, help reduce the stigma, and celebrate the achievements of people in recovery while reinforcing the message that treatment is effective, and recovery is possible. Why it is important: In 2023 alone, more than 54 million people in the US needed treatment for substance abuse disorders. However, only 23% of those received the treatment they needed due to stigma, feelings of shame, cost or a lack of access to appropriate help. Even more worryingly, the relapse rate for substance use disorders is 40-60%. National Recovery Month promotes understanding and support for individuals and families affected by mental health or substance use disorders and raises awareness of treatment options.

Fact: Nearly “49 million Americans” have experienced a substance use disorder in the last year, over 20 million of whom battled a co-occurring mental health issue. National Recovery Month is a crucial time to spotlight the need for comprehensive treatment and support. National Recovery Month is dedicated to supporting those in recovery from mental health and substance use disorders.

The Addiction and Mental Health Services Department thanks all JIB staff members who came out to support and celebrate with us the Miracle of Recovery at the chat session Tuesday, September 16th!! The JIB is grateful to Annette Rivera, Jessica Feliciano & the guest speaker, Elsie, for such an informative afternoon.
